

1a. Why do you think we use models (either physical or mental) to represent atoms?

1b. Is one model more correct than another?

1c. Are some models better suited for some purposes than others?